The example on the preceding page illustrates some advantages that such a repair procedure offers:

- ◆ Since the clearcoat is extended completely over the roof and down the other quarter, a clearly defined “break” line can be reached at the drivers side passenger door edge. This means no clearcoat “blend edge” is created as part of the repair.
- ◆ Done correctly, this procedure insures the long term integrity of the repair. It also makes for a very “clean” finish since a definite break line has been used to stop the repair. The procedure insures “even” appearance and general continuity of the entire repair.

Due to these factors PPG has the following policy for PPG Certified Collision Repair Centers offering our Lifetime Paint Performance Guarantee:

“When performing PPG Lifetime Paint Performance Guarantee repairs, if no clean break or body line exists for stopping the application of clearcoat, extend the application of clear to the nearest panel edge or break line”.

The following graphics shows an example of such a repair on a quarter/sail panel repair with no clean break line:

Repair Part #1- Basecoat

Apply basecoat color to spot repair and blend out.

Repair Part #2- Clearcoat*

Apply clear to quarter, roof, & opposite quarter. In the case of PPG clears, 2.0 dry mils are required as a minimum! Follow clearcoat recommendations.
